

DEANNA AND PAUL side 3 - Deanna and Paul

The place is empty, aside from them. After a few moments in their perspective spaces, Deanna approaches and refills Paul's coffee. He never looks up. She stares at him intently, then crosses to put the pot back. After a few moments she circles back.

DEANNA

Has anyone ever told you that you were a fish in a former life.

PAUL

What?

DEANNA

A fish. Have you ever been told you were a fish in a former life.

PAUL

No.

DEANNA

I'm surprised. I'm definitely getting a strong 'fish' feel from you. Salmon. I picked up on it the moment you walked in.

PAUL

Okay. Thank you.

DEANNA

My pleasure.

He tries to go back to reading, but she stands there studying him.

PAUL

Is there something else?

DEANNA

Always.